How to Swim and Save Life.

At Harlem Beach, 116th street, Professor Bibbero gave the first of a series of six daily swimming exhibitions, in which he practically illustrates the proper rules to be used in case of shipwrick, &c. He recommends that all trayollers carry as part of their baggage a cork jacket of proper balance, fastening as near the PATEK, PEILIPPE & CO'S. (GENEVA)
WATCHES, keeping affine while the hands are used to re-move the clothing. In swimming a long distance the proper method of breatning must be observed. To inhale, open the mouth when sheve the surfice of the water and the lungs will influte themselves. The best way to rest is to lie on the back, extend the arms at full length above the head, with finger points bent sightly back, bady and legs perfectly arraight; breathe natural y, and it water comes into the mouth spit it out. In breakers, cire under them and come up for a breath. If a cramp is fele in one limb use the others. Professor Bib. b. ro compares the body to a four eared boar; if one our breeks use the others to save yourself with. Those who cannot swim try to calculate comething in the air, struggle and move about until the air leaves their in age and water rushes in, causing drowning. To save themselves from drowning they should keep their lips closed, drowning they should keep their lips closed, bend the head back, with chin as far up as possible, lie flat on the chest, arms twelve or fourteen inches under the surface of the water, with the paims of the hands down and extended flat. The stroke of a good swimmer is in easy strokes from the body, with the arms and legs in union. A poor swimmer loses confidence from a jirky, and uneven stroke. To save a person from drowning approach from behind and take hold of his wrists. If he flounders very much and endangers your own life loses your hold until he is partly exhausted and take hold or his he is partly exhausted and take held of his wrists again, place his head on your chest, takwrists again, piece his need on your chest, taking care to keep his mouth above the surface of the water. To loose the hold of a drowning parson, dislocation from the thumb, a sort of slipping from the grasp by bending the thumb up, is the best method. If he catches you around the waist put your flagers in his nestrils and pend his head back until released,"—N Y. Herall.

THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES, the celebrabration of which will commence in the different Jewish espagogues this evening at supset, is an occasion which but few seemingly outside of the I-raclitish comp are interested in, though the "sure word of prophecy" tells us there will be a time in the world's history when all nations of the earth will be compelled under certain penalties to present themselves at Jerusalem vearly in order to keep the feast of tabersacles | Z :ch. x 7.] Of course there are many prone to explain awey the words of the seer by urging some spiritual meaning for his language; while others, of equal standing as Christians and scholars, look for a literal fulfiment of the prophecy. From a careful reading of the chapter and comparison with the 24 n chapter of Matthew, it would seem that there is yet in the facure a period in which the Jewish people will be again settled in their own land, when armies of aliens will once more "compass the beloved cit;" that at the most critical period of the siege their hitherto rejected Messiah wil appear and fight for his nation, and it will be after he has see in judgment on the living nations and purged the world of all cvil, and instituted his literal Messianic reign, that the ob servance of this feast will become obligatory.

HOOTCHENOO is the name of an intoxicating beverage distilled by the Sitka Indians from mclasses and cheap sugar. The government of Alaska would be comparatively easy if it were not for "hoorebenoo," and Commander Sull, of the United States steamer Wachusett, in a roport to the Navy Department, dated at Sicka, September 8, recommends the entire sappression of the sale of molasses and lower grade sugars in Alaska. Fights and broils between individuals and tribes are of frequent co:ur. rence wherever this maddening drink is distilled. Commander Sall reports that a convention was held at Rockwell on Auget 16, at which a petition to Congress to establish civil government in Alaska was adopted. At present it seems that the administration of justice devolves on the naval commanders who happen to anchor in Alaskan perts.

THE trastees of the Peabody educational fund held their annual meeting at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, Wednesday, Hon. Robert C. Wintbrop, president, in the chair. Mr. Wintbrop made a brief address, congratu lating the trusters on the success of their work, and spoke in eulogis ic terms of the late Geo. W. Riggs, one of the original trustees, Dr. Curry, presented his anoual report, which spoke favorably of the advancement that had been made in educational matters in the Suh. The distribution of the income since February l amounted $50,375.
